Freshmen Driven From Center Walk After Stadium Battle

Displaying an unprederstood spirit of fight, a disorganized Freshman Class was overwhelmed by the stronger Sophomore unit of the evening. The Freshman phalanx, coming up on opposite sides of the long row, fell in a mass. But even the Sophs were not prepared for the rout as they were not able to keep the line up and the Sophs were forced to retreat.

Center Walk

Leading towards the Freshmen line, they tried to send the game to the recalcitrant Sophs. The line of Sophs fell in too slow to make any impression. But the opponent Sophs were unable to keep the line up and the Sophs were forced to retreat.

THE TOWER

CROSSED WIRES

By WAYNE JABRON

The notice evoking a group of students at one of the larger state universities is that the annual basketball game is going to be played this weekend at a nearby location. The game is scheduled to start at 2:00 PM, and the location is the university stadium.

This game is expected to draw a large crowd, and the university has made arrangements for additional bleachers to be set up around the stadium. The weather forecast is for a clear day with temperatures in the mid-70s.

The game will be played between the teams of the University of Michigan and the University of Wisconsin. Both teams have strong basketball programs, and this game is expected to be a close contest.

The fans are encouraged to arrive early to secure their seats and to allow time for parking and traffic. The university has also made arrangements for additional parking near the stadium.

Week by Week

By ANTHONY MARACINO

The new year brings a new start for students. The sense of ambition and determination to succeed is palpable. The work ethic is high, and the drive to excel is evident. This is the time of renewal and rejuvenation, a time to make new beginnings.

The university is planning a series of events to celebrate the start of the new year. These events will include a lecture series, a workshop on time management, and a career development seminar.

As I Heard It

By W. J. MURPHY

The student newspaper, The Tower, is pleased to announce the addition of a new column to its weekly publication. The column, entitled "As I Heard It," will feature a collection of personal anecdotes and reflections on campus life.

The column will be written by a group of students, who will share their experiences and insights on a variety of topics. The column will be published every week, and it will be available for free online.

The column will cover a range of topics, from academic life to social events, and it will provide a unique perspective on campus life. The column will be a great resource for students, faculty, and alumni who want to stay informed about the latest happenings on campus.

The Tower is excited to launch this new column and looks forward to hearing from its readers. The column welcomes contributions from all students, faculty, and staff members.

CARDINALS TROUNCE WESLEYAN BOBCATS 21-0

OFF THE CUFF
JIM FITZPATRICK

A few weeks ago, the football team at The Tower received a call from Cardinal Coach Larry D'Allesandro, with the news that the Cardinal football team would be coming to town the next Saturday afternoon for a home game. The team was excited about the opportunity to play against one of the top teams in the conference, and the game was highly anticipated by fans and players alike.

The game was held on a beautiful fall day, with clear blue skies and a perfect temperature. The stadium was packed with fans, cheering loudly as the team took the field. The Cardinal offense started strong, with quarterback Joe Smith leading the team on a long drive that ended in a touchdown. The Bobcats fought back, but the Cardinal defense held strong, allowing only one more touchdown in the game.

Despite the Bobcats' efforts, the Cardinal defense was too strong, with four interceptions and several sacks. The team was thrilled with their performance, and the fans were eager to see more of the Cardinal offense. The game ended with a final score of 21-0, as the Cardinal team celebrated their victory with their fans.

The team was grateful for the opportunity to play against such a strong opponent, and they were excited to see what the future held for them. The fans were equally thrilled, and they couldn't wait to see what the next game would bring.
